South Asia Environment Ministers endorse the "Jaipur Declaration Establishing the South Asia Initiative for Combating Illegal Trade in Wildlife"

The 11th GC.SACEP endorsed the Declaration on South Asia Wildlife Trade Initiative as the 'South Asia Initiative for Combating Illegal Trade in Wildlife', and agreed to the South Asia Regional Strategic Plan on Illegal Wildlife Trade (2008 – 2013)

The countries in the South Asia region are very rich in terrestrial and marine natural resources which are a storehouse of unique biodiversity as well as many endangered species and there is rapid growing demand, both locally and globally, for wildlife products.

While legal trade can be monitored and managed, illegal trade in wild animals and plants poses a major challenge to the conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity in South Asia.

All the countries in the region are presently having various laws and regulations to prevent illegal trade but still are subject to large scale illegal trade in wildlife and its derivatives by a well organized local and international illegal trade network.

Despite concerns of overexploitation of wildlife by the civil society and efforts of the enforcement agencies it is unlikely that the on going trend of increased illegal trade by the strong international illegal wildlife crime nexus can be tackled without new enforcement strategies and through regional cooperation and networking.

The countries in the region have committed for wildlife conservation and to regulate illegal trade under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) through its various resolutions, or implement related National Laws and Policies.

The South Asia Wildlife Trade Diagnostic Workshop held in Kathmandu in April 2004, and the priorities identified for improved regional co-operation to address illegal wildlife trade challenges in South Asia.

The SAWTI has been launched with the active support of the TRAFFIC International and CITES Secretariat, WWF and the US Government

From the Director General's desk

This period saw the conduction of the 11th Governing Council of SACEP and the 4th Inter Ministerial Meeting, South Asia Seas Programme. The Government of India was kind enough to host both the meetings in a grand manner at the historical and beautiful city of Jaipur in Rajasthan. I am personally indebted to the Hon' Minister of State of Environment and Forests, Government of India, Mr Namonarian Meena for consenting to be present at both the meetings and to the Hon' Governor of Rajasthan, HE S. N. Singh for being the Chief Guest and Hon' Chief Minister Of Rajasthan, HE Ms Vasundara Raje Scindia, for accepting our invitation to grace the occasion as a Guest of Honour. I am thankful to all the Ministers and other delegates from the member countries who attended the meetings.

The 11th Governing Council was the third council meeting to be held since I took over at SACEP as the Director General in the year 2005. The 4th Inter Ministerial Meeting, South Asia Seas Programme was the 2nd ministerial meeting during my tenure. This was the first time that the Governing Council and Inter Ministerial Meeting, South Asia Seas Programme were being held so regularly as laid down in the Articles of Association of SACEP and the South Asian Seas Action Plan. The Ministers greatly appreciated the giant strides taken by SACEP and the SASP in the last few years and praised the efforts of SACEP to realize the arrears of Country contributions and raise fresh funds for various programmes. This has strengthened SACEP both financially and programmatically and for the first time SACEP is on a very strong footing. The expansion of the network of SACEP to include not only the UN agencies like UNEP, UNESCO, UNCRD, WMO, IMO, UN-DAOLOS and governments like the USA, Belgium but also international NGOs like IUCN, WWF and funding agencies like the EC and SIDA was much appreciated. The Governing Council praised the Secretariat for its efforts in developing a large variety of Projects in-house and approved several projects put before it for being posed to funding agencies. It also requested the member countries to enhance the country contributions and to support SACEP in expanding its Trust Funds that was kick-started by India in 2007 through an initial contribution of INR 10 million.

It is with a great sense of achievement and contentment that I look over the past three years at SACEP. The vision that the external review committee as seen in its report in the year 2004, has been fulfilled to a great extent by the new path that SACEP had embarked upon and now it is standing at the threshold of a great and bright future where it can fulfill the aspirations of its member countries as a very strong foundation has been laid and it has now the capacity and the financial strength to march forward in its endeavor for a bright and sustainable future.

Annual Meeting of the RAPIDC

The regional Air Pollution in Developing countries (RAPIDC) a programme carried out by Stockholm Environment Institute (SEI) had its Technical Advisory Committee Meeting (TAC) and the Programme Management Committee (PMC) meeting consisting of all its core collaborators in Stockholm, Sweden from 1-3rd June 2008. It was attended by representatives from SACEP, UNEP, SIDA and members of both Programme Advisory Group (PAG) and Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) consisting of members from University of Goteborg, IVL, University of Singapore, IIIEE of the Lind University, Sweden, SMHI and KIMAB.

At the meeting it was highlighted that Male Declaration Programme has acted as a Regional forum for the Governments and Stakeholders in South Asia to participate in addressing the air pollution issues for the Last 10 years. Also it has come a long way towards mapping the various emission sources and understanding the complex relations between them and their contributions to ambient air concentrations and effects on human health, crops, corrosion, eco systems etc. Further it was highlighted that the level of political commitment has increased over the years. As per the progress of the Implementation of the Male Declaration programme it was mentioned that at the beginning of the project there were only seven monitoring stations established and now at the end of the Phase III, it has been expanded up to 14 monitoring stations in eight countries. Over the years the programme was able to conduct successful Regional Level and National Level training programmes for the operation of the monitoring sites. With regard to the Future Development of the programme, SIDA suggested to conduct a meeting with the ministers of Environment's of the member countries to get the project on the ground and suggested that SACEP could play a prominent role as SACEP can directly deal with Ministers to have effects in the countries.

Asia-Pacific Forestry Commission - 22nd Session

The first-ever Asia-Pacific Forestry Week organized 21-26 April 2008, in Hanoi, Vietnam. It was the largest and the most important forestry-related events in the region in 2008. The event brought together upwards of 500 individuals from governments, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), research institutions, regional and international networks, UN agencies and the private sector and high-level forestry officials from throughout the Asia-Pacific region. It provided a unique opportunity for diverse stakeholders and forest managers to share perspectives and solutions to the most challenging issues facing forests and forestry today.

Leading regional and international natural resource organizations convened special plenary sessions each morning of Asia-Pacific Forestry Week, focusing on the three pillars of sustainable development: social, environmental, and economic. Under the social pillar "forests and poverty" issues highlighted, with consideration given to resource tenure and access, decentralization, livelihoods and community participation.

Forests and climate change was the top of the agenda on the "environment day", with consideration given to what forestry can do to mitigate climate change, as well as how forestry will need to adapt in response to climate change. For the economic focus topics related to trade, timber certification, forest law enforcement and governance, and forestry investment will dominate. In addition to these plenary sessions, numerous international and regional organizations and networks working in forest- and forestry related issues are planning important events and activities throughout the week.

Dr. Arvind Boaz, Director General,

SACEP presented two papers.

The first was titled Forestry Research need to cope Global Changers-The South Asia Perspective". The paper titled the limitations and constraints of Forestry Research In South Asia and elaborated on current emerging challengers in the global scenario. It proposed a way ahead to bring in the "Brown Revolution" in South Asia, where there will be Forest Products in plenty because Forestry Research had reinvented itself and paved a golden future for forestry in South Asia.

The second Paper was on "South Asia wildlife Trade Initiative" -An intergovernmental initiatives by eight countries of SACEP". In this paper, details of the new initiatives of SACEP to establish the SWATI in order to combat illegal trade in wild flora and fauna in the South Asia Region.

O' AXE MAN ! (A Young Tree Laments)

Dr Arvind Boaz

Halt, O' Axe man !
Why do you cut my life short?
What have I done to you?
Look, I provide you shade
Bear flowers and fruits,
Purify the air,
Harbour birds for you to hear,
Melodious songs,
To lull you to sleep and greet
You, a happy good-morning.
Can't you see my tears?
O' ! all powerful one.
Are you not moved?
Spare me now,
For I'll be a boon to your offspring,
When I grow old.
No doubt, they'll hack me to death,
But, I'll silently accept that mercy killing.
For, I know, then, I'll provide
Wood, for his cot, his chair, his table.
For his house, his cart, his plough,
Toys, for his children to play with,
Fuel wood, for cooking his food,
I know, I'll provide such great happiness,
To him, then, that I'll be happy.
EVEN IN DEATH
